Risk	Typical Equity Allocation
<input type="checkbox"/> Low Risk (Defensive) - We are most concerned about the safety of the investment. We are willing and financially able to accept small short-term losses.	0-30%
<input type="checkbox"/> Low to Medium Risk (Cautious) - We are willing and financially able to bear some risk of loss in an effort to achieve higher returns. Willing to accept somewhat lower returns in order to assure greater safety of the investment.	20-40%
<input type="checkbox"/> Medium Risk (Balanced) - We seek a balance between safety and the potential for capital growth and are prepared to see some fluctuations in the value of the account in order to achieve potentially higher returns over the longer term. We may consider switching to a more stable option in the event of significant losses.	35-65%
<input type="checkbox"/> Medium to High Risk (Growth) - We are willing and financially able to accept higher risk of capital loss in order to achieve potentially higher returns. Significant losses over an extended period may prompt a switch to less volatile investments.	50-85%

Part G. Terms of business

This document constitutes a Portfolio Management Services Agreement (the 'Agreement').

Between:

- I. The applicant (s) as detailed in Part B (the 'Investor'); and II. ASHBURTON (JERSEY) LIMITED whose registered office is at IFC1, The Esplanade, St Helier, Jersey, JE4 8SJ, Channel Islands ('the Investment Manager').
- II. WHEREAS the Investor hereby appoints the Investment Manager to manage the Investments (as defined in Clause 1.1 below) governed by this Agreement and hereby authorises the Investment Manager to appoint an appropriately regulated custodian (the "Custodian" which shall include any sub-custodian properly appointed by the Custodian) to hold such Investments as custodian and to deal with them as directed by the Investment Manager from time to time, as provided in this Agreement and any custodian agreement entered into between the Investment Manager and the Custodian (a "Custodian Agreement"). The Investment Manager may instruct the Custodian to open one or more bank accounts and security accounts in the name of the Investment Manager for the benefit of the Investor and a number of other clients of the Investment Manager (a "Custody Account").

Now it is hereby agreed as follows:

1. Concerning the Investment Manager
 - 1.1. The Investment Manager is hereby appointed by the Investor pursuant to the terms of this agreement to manage, in accordance with the investment parameters as stated in the profile and as may be subsequently amended in writing in accordance with the signing mandate for the account, all money, securities or other property which the Investor may from time to time place with the Investment Manager for the purposes of investment together with any money, securities or other property or income arising therefrom or the management thereof ('the Investments' or 'the Investor's Portfolio').
 - 1.2. The Investment Manager shall use its best endeavours to manage the Investments in accordance with the given Mandate and to observe the investment objectives of the Investor using bonds, equities, collective investment funds, exchange traded funds (ETFs), alternative investments, commodities, money market securities, futures, options, cash deposits including foreign currencies, on an international basis. However, the Investment Manager shall not be responsible for failure to achieve such objectives or for any depreciation which may occur in the value of the Investments or of any part thereof or for any loss whatsoever which may be suffered in connection therewith.
 - 1.3. When carrying out any transaction on an Investor's behalf, the Investment Manager will generally act as the Investor's agent. However, the Investment Manager may in certain circumstances act as principal.
 - 1.4. The Investment Manager shall have full and unrestricted discretion to do and carry out all and any of the following things:-
 - (a) To make, as agent or otherwise, such changes in the Investments from time to time as the Investment Manager may decide and to exercise all such rights and perform all such duties in relation to the Investments as the Investment Manager may decide, providing that if the Investment Manager invests in fixed interest securities or equities, they shall be quoted on recognised stock exchanges or be widely dealt in by market makers, except as shall otherwise be permitted according to the mandate of the account.
 - (b) To instruct such banks, brokers or agents in connection with its duties and powers hereunder as it may decide.
 - (c) To invest in collective investment schemes generally and specifically those managed or administered by the Investment Manager or by other companies connected with the same financial group as the Investment Manager.
 - (d) To buy from or sell to the Investor as principal investments owned by the Investment Manager at prices consistent with those available in the market at the time of the transaction.
 - (e) The Investment Manager may aggregate an order of one Investor with the order of one or more other Investor(s) and those of the Investment Manager as principal if the Investment Manager reasonably determines in its discretion that to do so is in the overall best interests of all affected Investors. In general, orders where trades are aggregated will be allocated to participating accounts on a pro-rata basis so that all participants are treated equally, with the exception that client accounts are given priority. Allocation will typically be made at the execution price of the aggregated trade (net of all relevant fees and commissions), with the exception of orders completed over a period of time, where allocation may be made on an average price basis in order to achieve a fair outcome for all clients.

- 1.5. The Investment Manager may utilise futures, traded options, contracts for difference, exchange traded futures currency hedging and other derivatives instruments ('Derivatives') for the purpose of efficient portfolio management and to obtain exposure to specific investment opportunities. In doing so, the Investment Manager will be entering into transactions with a third party e.g. an exchange, intermediate broker, counterparty or clearing house ('Third Party') involving the payment of money (from the Custody Account maintained in the name of the Investment Manager with the Third Party) for the Third Party to hold or control in order to effect a transaction or to satisfy the Investor's obligation to provide collateral (e.g. initial margin / margin maintenance requirement) in respect of a transaction.
- 1.6. The Investment Manager may enter into transactions in non-readily realisable investments including products from a fellow group member or connected company. These are investments in which the market is limited, or in which it may be difficult to deal or for which it may be difficult to assess a proper market price. Dealing and settlement dates may also be restricted.
- 1.7. The Investment Manager will not knowingly execute a transaction that would result in the Investor having a short position other than as may be permitted according to the mandate of account. (Selling short is a market practice where an Investor sells an investment he does not own in anticipation of a fall in the market price and with the objective of subsequently purchasing that investment at a lower price than that obtained from the sale, thereby closing the short position whilst also making a profit from the exercise).
- 1.8. If the Investor does not inform the Investment Manager of any investments or types of investments which the Investor does not wish the Investment Manager to purchase for the Investor, or of any maximum amount which the Investment Manager may commit to any one class of investment, the Investment Manager may deal in any investment which falls within any of the categories set out in Clauses 1.5 to 1.7 above. However, the Investment Manager will only do so where it has reasonable grounds for believing the investments are suitable for the Investor.
- 1.9. The Investment Manager will not deal for the Investor a transaction which is not regulated by the rules of any stock exchange or investment exchange unless specifically requested to do so by the Investor either verbally or in writing. The Investment Manager may however deal in units of a collective investment scheme or similar scheme which is not regulated by the rules of any stock exchange or investment exchange
- 1.10. The Investment Manager may instruct the Custodian to open Custody Accounts in currencies other than the Investor's Portfolio's base currency as indicated in Part A ('the Base Currency'), in order to facilitate the processing of investment transactions. Short-term trading overdrafts may be incurred on such accounts and the Investors agrees they are liable for any such overdraft.
- 1.11. The Investment Manager undertakes to instruct the Custodian to place cash deposits with approved banks or financial institutions at favourable rates of interest in whichever major currency the Investment Manager shall decide. If, by instructing the Custodian to aggregate individual client cash balances, the Investment Manager is able to negotiate more favourable rates than could be obtained on small sums, such additional interest will accrue to the benefit of the Investor.
- 1.12. The Investment Manager may exercise (or leave unexercised) voting or other rights of whatsoever nature attaching to or in any way arising from the Investments and may make payment on the Investor's behalf in respect of any such rights, in each case without reference to the Investor.
- 1.13. The value charged or credited to the Investor in respect of securities purchased or sold on the Investor's behalf shall be the value paid or received by the Investment Manager, reflecting all third party costs borne by the clients and any transaction fee.
- 1.14. Where applicable and agreed the Investment Manager shall be entitled to make activity charges in relation to security transactions in accordance with its standard fees and charges schedule in force from time to time.
- 1.15. Unless the Investor has consented in writing not to receive this information, the Investment Manager shall provide a detailed schedule of transactions effected for the Investor's Portfolio, which will accompany the valuations to be forwarded to the Investor at intervals to be agreed with the Investor.
- 1.16. The Investment Manager shall prepare valuations of the Investments on a calendar quarter basis i.e. as at the end of March, June, September and December. Additional valuations, if required, will be prepared as at such other dates to be agreed with the Investor. All valuations will be mailed to the Investor as soon as practicable.
- 1.17. Dividends will normally be converted to the stated Base Currency of the Investor's Portfolio. Credit interest received in foreign currency will normally be retained in that currency. Please note the Investment Manager will normally only elect to receive cash dividends.

- 1.18. The Investment Manager shall receive an investment management fee in accordance with its standard fees and charges schedule in force at the time of signing the Agreement or at such other rate as is agreed with the Investor in writing. The Investment Manager shall be entitled to vary the said rate upon giving one month's written notice to the Investor. Such fee shall be in addition to the Investment Manager's right to an administration charge and reimbursement for all expenses or charges incurred or made by the Investment Manager in relation to the Investments or any part thereof or any of its duties or powers hereunder. It is agreed that the Investment Manager shall be entitled to claim such fees, expenses and charges from the Custody Account. The Investor authorises the Investment Manager to notify the Custodian of the amounts claimed by the Investment Manager and authorises the Investment Manager to instruct the Custodian to make payment to the Investment Manager as soon as reasonably practicable after any claim is made.
- 1.19. The Investment Manager may also receive remuneration from third parties including group connected companies in respect of transactions undertaken through them on the Investor's behalf. Details of any such transactions or arrangements will be made available upon request. The Investment Manager may from time to time enter into soft commission arrangements. Such practices will be in adherence with market best practice which ensures that the arrangement is assisting in the provision of investment services to the Investor and will not alter the right of the Investor to best execution.
- 1.20. To satisfy its obligations under any tax reporting arrangements made between Jersey and other jurisdictions, as may be agreed from time to time, the Investment Manager may report certain information regarding the investments to the relevant authorities in Jersey, who may pass it to the tax authority where you are resident.
- 1.21. Any money the Investment Manager holds for the Investor pursuant to this Agreement (including without limitation monies received pending investment or monies returned from investment proceeds) will be held by the Investment Manager as trustee in accordance with the rules relating to client money. If the Investment Manager was to fail the client money distribution rules would apply to the Investor's money and so the Investor would be entitled to share in any distribution made under those rules.
- 1.22. The Investment Manager is part of international organisation which provides a wide range of financial services. As such, it, or a company with whom it has an association may from time to time have interests which conflict with the Investor's interests or with the duties that it owes to its Investors. These include conflicts arising between the interests of the Investment Manager, its associates and employees on the one hand, and the interests of the Investor on the other, and also conflicts between Investors themselves. The Investment Manager has established procedures, which are designed to identify and manage such conflicts. These include organisational and administrative arrangements to safeguard the interests of clients. [The Investment Manager may also deal as principal for its own investment account and may be matching transactions with another client. Procedures are in place in order to protect the client's interest in this instance]. In some cases, the Investment Manager's procedures and controls may not be sufficient to ensure that a potential conflict of interest does not damage an Investor's interests. In these circumstances, the Investment Manager may consider it appropriate to disclose the potential conflict to the client and obtain the Investor's formal consent to proceed. However, the Investment Manager may decline to act in any circumstance where there is residual risk of damage to the interests of any Investor. The Investor acknowledges that the service provided by the Investment Manager under the terms of this Agreement shall only be offered and continued to be offered subject to low volume and non-complex trading activity, and the determination of such trading activity in all respects shall be at the sole discretion of the Investment Manager. In the event that the levels of expected activity be exceeded, the Investment Manager reserves the right to withdraw the service in accordance with Clause 4 of these terms.
- 1.23. Unless instructed by the Investor otherwise, the Investment Manager may contact the Investor by telephone to discuss the conduct of the Custody Account, or to arrange a meeting to do so, without having been invited by the Investor to make such a call or arrange such a meeting.

2. Concerning Custody

- 2.1. The Investment Manager is entitled to appoint the Custodian to hold the Investments and to deal with them in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement.
- 2.2. The Investment Manager shall notify the Investor of the appointment of any change in Custodian by giving one month's written notice to the Investor. Any such notice will be accompanied by a schedule setting out the Custodian's fees, costs and expenses.
- 2.3. The Investor authorises and requests any Custodian appointed by the Investment Manager to hold the Investments in the name or to its order and to deal with and vary such Investments in accordance with instructions given from time to time by the Investment Manager. All Investments held by the Custodian shall be acquired and/or held by the Custodian. Accordingly legal title to the Investments will be held by the Custodian with the Investor holding ultimate beneficial ownership.
- 2.4. The Investments will be segregated from the Investment Manager's property in order to protect the Investor's interests in the event that the Investment Manager or the Custodian fails. However, the title to any Investments will be registered in the name of the Custodian. We remain responsible for the safekeeping of the Investments in the Custody Account to the full extent required by the rules in Jersey.

- 2.5. The Investments will be registered with investments made by other Investors. This means that each Investor's Investments may not be identifiable by physical or electronic documentation, such as a separate share certificate. The Investment Manager maintains computer records which enables us, at any time, to identify separately the Investments to which each Investor has a beneficial interest. An effect of pooling the Investments can be that, following a merger of one fund into another fund, each Investor's allocation may be fractionally less than if their Investments were registered in their own name. The Investment Manager has policies and procedures in place to undertake checks and reconciliations of the records and accounts of the Investments and to resolve any discrepancies which are identified and to deal with any shortfalls in any Investor's Investments. Where the Investment Manager is responsible for any such shortfall, the Investment Manager shall purchase assets as soon as reasonably practicable at our cost to correct the Investor's position. Part H. Investment Risk Warnings

Please ensure you read the following risk warnings.

The Investment Manager will trade in derivative products for the purpose of Efficient Portfolio Management. Efficient Portfolio Management is used to reduce costs and adjust risk exposures in the Investor's Portfolio.

As and when the Investment Manager trades in derivative products, there are risk factors and issues concerning the use of these products that you should understand and be aware of. The main risk factors associated with the type of derivatives that may be used within the Investor's Portfolio for Efficient Portfolio Management are detailed below.

1. Futures

Transactions in futures involve the obligation to make, or to take delivery of, the underlying assets of the contract at a future date, or in some cases, to settle the position with cash in certain circumstances. Such transactions can carry a high degree of risk.

The 'gearing' or 'leverage' often obtainable in futures trading means that a small deposit or down payment can lead to large losses as well as gains. It also means that a relatively small movement can lead to a proportionately much larger movement in the value of your investment, and this can work against you as well in your favour. The Investment Manager does not intend to undertake leverage and gearing when using futures in the management of the Investor's Portfolio.

Futures transactions have a contingent liability, and you should be aware of the implications of this, in particular the collateral and margin requirements which are set out in the paragraph entitled "Contingent liability investment transactions".

2. Options

There are many different types of options with different characteristics subject to different conditions. Those detailed below would be commonly associated with Efficient Portfolio Management.

Buying options

Buying options involves less risk than writing options because, if the price of the underlying asset moves against you, the option can simply be allowed to lapse. The maximum loss is limited to the premium, plus any commission or other transaction charges.

Writing options

When writing an option, the risk involved is considerably greater than buying an option. A margin may be needed to maintain your investment position and a loss may be sustained well in excess of any premium received.

The legal obligation to purchase or sell an asset, if the option is exercised, is created when an option is written. The risk involved with this is that the market price could have risen or fallen substantially against the original exercise price. If the asset already makes up part of your investment portfolio and a contract is made to sell this asset at a set date in the future, the risk is reduced. This method is known as a covered call option.

3. Foreign markets

Foreign markets will involve different risks from UK markets. In some cases the risks will be greater. The potential for profit or loss from transactions on foreign markets or in foreign denominated contracts will also be affected by fluctuations in foreign exchange rates.

4. Currency Forwards

Forward foreign exchange positions may be established in the Investor's Portfolio for the purposes of investment and the hedging of currency risk. Dealing in foreign currencies can be volatile and adverse currency movements against these transactions can result in losses.

5. Contingent liability investment transactions

A contingent liability investment is a derivative under the terms of which the Investor's Portfolio may be liable to make further payments (other than charges) when the transaction fails to be completed or upon the earlier closing out of the position.

For margined transactions, any margin that is placed against futures or options, to establish or maintain a position, may be lost. Certain market movements may require substantial additional margin at short notice to maintain such a position. The risk is that if additional margin is not provided the derivatives position may be liquidated at a loss resulting in a liability for any deficit.

For derivatives where no margin has been required, these transactions may still carry an obligation to make further payments in certain circumstances over and above any amount paid when the contract was initially purchased.

6. Suspensions of trading

Under certain trading conditions it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position. This may occur, for example, at times of rapid price movement if the price rises or falls in one trading session to such an extent that under the rules of the relevant exchange trading is suspended or restricted.

7. Warrants

It is not the Investment Manager's intention to use warrants on a day to day basis in the Investor's Portfolio. However, should the Investment Manager trade in warrants there are risk and issues concerning the use of these products that you should understand and be aware of. The main risk factors associated with the use of warrants are detailed below.

A warrant is a right to subscribe for shares, debentures, loan stock or government securities, and is exercisable against the original issuer of the securities. Warrants often involve a high degree of gearing, so that a relatively small movement in the price of the underlying security results in a disproportionately large movement in the price of the warrant. The prices of warrants can therefore be volatile. The risk involved with purchasing warrants is that a total loss of money invested plus any commission or other transaction charges could occur should the warrant be allowed to lapse. A warrant may be allowed to lapse if the underlying security price is unfavourable. Some other instruments are also called warrants but are actually options (for example, a right to acquire securities which is exercisable against someone other than the original issuer of the securities, often called a 'covered warrant').

8. Off-exchange transactions

Transactions in off-exchange warrants may involve greater risk than dealing in exchange traded warrants because there is no exchange market through which to liquidate a position, to assess the value of the warrant or the exposure to risk. Bid and offer prices need not be quoted, and even where they are, they will be established by dealers in these instruments and consequently it may be difficult to establish what is a fair price.

9. Market risks

The price of shares and any income from them may go down as well as up due to market fluctuations or exchange rates and you may not receive back the amount you originally invested.

10. Aggregation of orders

The aggregation of an order of one Investor with the order of one or more other Investors may on some occasions advantage or disadvantage certain Investors.
